So in response to Stephanie's questions my two cents (for what they are worth) are:

1) Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

With COVID, not sure there anyone at the regional office to receive mail. I would think we want CDs to not have challenges with sharepoint (if someone has the ability to read them – the new computers don't have the drives and my external cd rom is at the office).

- 2) We need complete copies of the regulations and authorities. We have to provide it in the docket, we can't rely on westlaw (some of us, and many in the public, do not have access to westlaw).

I wanted to pass along two questions from Stephanie:

- (1) FDEP wants to know how to transmit their package. Snail mail, email, both? Keep in mind that it will be a very large submission so is their sharepoint site sufficient for all the various components of their package for purposes of an electronic submission? For a hard copy submission, do they copy all the banker's boxes worth of information to CDs?
- (2) The lawfully adopted (but not yet effective) rules they submit will have "dead" hyperlinks to other regulations and authorities because the rule is not yet effective. Should FDEP send complete copies of the regulations and authorities referenced in the hyperlinks via sharepoint (electronic submission) or CD (hard copy submission) or is it sufficient that we have the cite which allows us to look up the regulation/authority via internet/westlaw?

Also, Kathy and I talked a moment ago and she has raised:

Thanks,

Matt
